IV CHAM INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE
NOVA FCSH
LISBOA, PORTUGAL

17 - 19 July 2019
About CHAM

CHAM — Centre for the Humanities is an inter-University research unit of the Faculdade de Ciências Sociais e Humanas, Universidade NOVA de Lisboa and of the Universidade dos Açores, funded by the Fundação para a Ciência e a Tecnologia. CHAM’s team includes researchers from different disciplinary fields (Archaeology, Art History, Heritage, Literature, Philosophy and History of ideas), different domains of History (Economic, Cultural, Political, Social, Religious, History of Science and History of books and reading practices) and specialists from various geographic spaces. From 2015 to 2022, CHAM’s strategic project will focus on “frontiers”. This multi-disciplinary project considers frontiers as limits that distinguished, throughout history, a plurality of societies and cultures, but also as social and cultural constructs that promoted communication and interaction.

Welcome to CHAM2019

It is my great pleasure to welcome all delegates to the IV CHAM International Conference on Africa on behalf of CHAM’s Director and our Executive Committee. The decision to call this conference was taken two years ago as we closed the former edition. We discussed the importance of bringing together researchers in African Studies to join us in the current and important debates that take place in the field.

The high turnout of participants from countries in Africa and around the world emphasizes the importance of this scientific event. We are very thankful to all who chose to register and share their experiences. Our Keynote, Professor Paul Gilroy, has honored us with his presence and will set the focus for our discussion and future work.

Many of those attending are young scholars from many different universities around the world. They also come from all educational stages; in fact, they range from undergraduates to postdoctoral and senior fellows. This is very important for us, as we encourage multigenerational contributions in our research centre and believe it is the only way to maintain an appropriate long-term production with global impact.

The themes and sub-themes in our panels and the wide range of paper proposals predict a very productive multidisciplinary conference and include a broad range of theoretical perspectives. The Arts, Gender Studies, Literature, History, Technology, Culture, and Education are some of the fields that will be discussed.

On this occasion, we should also take time to remember decisions made recently, notably in the context of the African Union and other African institutions, as well as the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, which will take place with major contribution from African countries. As we discuss at a wide scale how to tackle inequality and access to opportunities, the Humanities and Social Sciences need to engage in the consideration of their role in such path.

As we will certainly make the most of the coming days, we hope to set a collaborative agenda that contributes to future achievements at the regional and global stage.

Welcome to Lisbon.

Ana Maria Martinho
Conference Convener
Theme: Innovation, invention and memory in Africa

CHAM is proud to announce the organisation of its IV International Conference Innovation, invention and memory in Africa. Following very successful previous editions, we are now focusing on Africa, its heritage, challenges and achievements.

The conference aims to foster the presentation and discussion of multiple disciplinary approaches and contributions to the understanding of cultural, literary, historical, social, educational, artistic, ecological, and political landscapes in Africa. The conference brings together students, academics, policymakers, community leaders, and artists. It promotes a broad disciplinary approach to African Studies and a dynamic forum for discussion and knowledge production. A particular attention is dedicated to the importance of future leadership and to the role of young policymakers, researchers and artists.

As Africa evolves towards an increasingly central position on the world stage and as it showcases notable narratives of development, resistance and creation, it is paramount to listen to African scholarship and to engage in collaborative discussions. Such an approach is one of the many possible ways of moving together towards a much needed discussion on authorized voices in research dissemination, and on the current relevance of postcolonial theory and its growing divergent readings. How can we chart such heritage? Who do we need to listen to at the transnational, national and regional levels?

We welcomed contributions for panels, papers and posters on ongoing academic research, fieldwork, community-based projects, related to and including, but not limited, the following themes:

- Activism(s): reforms and practices
- Arts: production and commodification
- Cultural practices: representations and discourses
- Environment and ecocriticism
- Diaspora communities: past and present history(ies)
- Education: policies, practices and skills development
- Film, theatre, music: new directions, legacies
- History: foundations and current readings
- LGBT communities: challenges and realities
- Literatures: theory, critique and production
- Media and Social Media: challenges and current issues
- Oral History: storytelling and community empowerment
- Philosophy: African thought and trends
- Religion(s): mapping the postcolonial reality
- Slavery and transatlantic slave trade
- Technology and science: state of the art
- Urban spaces and public policies
- Women’s roles: society, academia and power structures
Practical information

Using this programme

This Practical information gives guidance on how to navigate this book and the main venues, and of course a guide to Lisbon in general - including suggestions for sightseeing, dining and nightlife. The general Timetable on the inside front cover gives a quick overview of when keynotes, panel sessions and other events are taking place during the conference. The full academic programme is detailed in the Daily timetable section which shows what is happening and where at any given moment in chronological sequence. The Keynote, panel, paper and poster abstracts section provides the actual panel and paper abstracts. At the rear of the book there is a List of participants to help you identify the panels and workshops in which particular colleagues will convene/discuss/present their work. Following this ‘index’ are the publisher advertisements. Finally, on the rear cover you will find a map of the venue surroundings, showing some restaurant recommendations for lunch.

If you need any help interpreting the information in the conference book, please ask a member of the team at the Reception desk.

Timing of panels and individual paper

26 ninety-minute panel sessions have been scheduled from 17 to 19 July. Panels last from one to four sessions, depending on the number of accepted papers, with up to four papers per session. We are using seven rooms at a time, so any one panel is up against that number of alternatives. The times of each panel are shown in the respective abstract section and are also indicated in the Daily timetable.

In this programme, you will find panel times, the order of presentations, but not the exact times of individual papers. Panels may run for a varying number of 90-minute panel sessions, each of which may hold up to four papers. Most panels have one or two sessions; however a few panels have been allowed more sessions due to the large number of proposals to their panel. This can be used as a rough guide in establishing when papers should start and end in any given session. However, considering the fact that convenors have a degree of flexibility in structuring their panels (i.e. in determining the length of individual presentations or discussions), and that last minute cancellations inevitably occur, we cannot guarantee complete success in targeting specific papers. A running order will be placed on the door of each room, so that convenors are able to indicate any late changes there.

If you are keen to hear a particular paper/presentation but do not wish to sit through the whole panel, we recommend you check with the running order on the door or ask the convenors at the start of the panel to find out when the paper will actually be presented.
Venues

The conference will take place at Universidade NOVA de Lisboa: Faculdade de Ciências Sociais e Humanas (FCSH), Av. de Berna 26-C, 1069-061 Lisboa, in buildings B1 and Tower B. The welcome drinks reception will be held at the conference venue, in the courtyard of FCSH. The conference dinner will be at the restaurant Faz Figura, near Santa Apolónia (Rua do Paraíso, 15B, 1100-395 Lisboa). To get to Faz Figura from FCSH we suggest taking the Metro’s blue line to Santa Apolónia.

Below are the floor plans for building B1, showing which rooms are being used during the conference.
About the Faculty
You can find out more information about the Faculty where the conference will take place via its official website and the interactive website – ‘Mais Lisboa’ http://maislisboa.fcsh.unl.pt/ – which also includes interesting attractions around various Lisbon neighbourhoods. Unfortunately, this website is only in Portuguese.

Catering
The catering area, where refreshments are served during the breaks, will be located in the corridors of B1. Please be advised that this year there won’t be lunch served at the conference, however you can find several eateries close to the conference venue, including the ones below (also marked on the map on the back cover of this book). Please keep in mind that the lunch break on Thursday is 1.5 hours and on Friday 1 hour.

Bars & Restaurants near the University

Pastelaria / Restaurante Pato Real
Av. de Berna 37, 1050-038 Lisboa, tel: +351 217971443

Oasis - vegetarian restaurant
Rua Marquês Sá da Bandeira 76, 1050-167 Lisboa, tel: +351 218095457

Oh! Lacerda
Av. de Berna 36

Laurentina, O rei do Bacalhau
Av. Conde Valbom 71A, 1050-067 Lisboa, tel: +351 217960260

Ararate – armenian restaurant
Av. Conde Valbom 70, 1050-099 Lisboa, tel: +351 925451509
The final conference dinner will be held at Faz Figura restaurant overlooking the Rio Tejo. This is a ticketed event, only delegates who bought a dinner ticket when registering can attend. If you purchased a dinner ticket, you’ll have a fork and knife icon on your badge. The ticket covers a 3-course meal and wine/soft drink.

RECYCLING
NomadIT re-uses the plastic badge holders, so please hand these in at the boxes provided on the Reception desk, or to a member of the conference team when leaving the conference for the final time. This not only saves resources, but helps keep registration costs to a minimum. With similar concern for the environment, we ask delegates to please be careful to use the recycling bins for paper, glass and plastic.

PRINTING
There are two printing places you can use:
- NOVA Cópia, at the venue in Tower B, next to AEFCSH (the students’ association of FCSH).
- Copianço (walking distance from the conference venue) - Avenida Barbosa de Bocade 100c, near metro Campo Pequeno.
For emergencies or out of office hours you may print for a small fee in NomadIT’s office, in B1, Sala 0.02.

RECEPTION DESK LOCATIONS AND HOURS
The Reception desk will be outside Torre B. On arrival at the Reception desk you will be given this book and your conference badge. The Reception desk will be open: Wednesday 13:00-15:00; Thursday 09:00-17:30; Friday 09:00-15:30.

CONGRESS TEAM
There is a team of helpful volunteers, familiar with the programme, the venue and the surrounding area that you can turn to when in need of assistance. The volunteer team members can be identified by their t-shirts carrying the conference logo. If you cannot see a team member, please ask for help from the reception desk or from the NomadIT’s office, in B1, Sala 0.02.

CHAM2019 office (NomadIT)
All financial arrangements must be dealt with in the conference organisers’ (NomadIT) office in B1, Sala 0.02.

EMERGENCY CONTACT DETAILS
During the conference, emergency messages should be sent to admin(at)chamconference.org. The conference organiser, James Howard of NomadIT, can be contacted on Portuguese cell, +351 965 097 236. The Portuguese emergency services number is 112.
Taxis
Taxis are a good way of getting around. Lisbon taxis are cheap. Taxi fares are calculated on the basis of an initial flat charge, currently €3.25. If luggage is carried (bigger than 55x35x20cm) a further 1.6€ is charged. The call-out is charged at 0.80€.

From the airport to most locations in central Lisbon should not cost more than €12 plus any baggage and call-out charges. Meters are displayed in all licensed taxis so the fare should not come as a shock. Tips are voluntary: 10% is the norm.

Lisbon local taxis charge 20% more after 10pm and on weekends (using Rate 2 rather than Rate 1). The fare outside of the city is calculated on a km basis upon leaving the city limits, about €0.47/km, and any motorway/bridge tolls are paid by the client. When taking a cab, try to enquire about the price to your destination first. Save your receipt and check if the license plate matches the receipt details. See if the meter is running and rate code is correct.

Autocoope - Taxis de Lisboa: +351 217 932 756 (http://www.taxislisboa.com/)
GEOTAXI: +351 218 444 400
Taxis 7C: +351 934 959 169 / +351 966 346 030
Taxitours + 351 964 120 673 (http://www.taxitours.com.pt)
Rádio-táxis de Lisboa: +351 218 119 000

Taxi apps have been slow to catch on in Lisbon, but 99Taxis (www.99taxis.com), MyTaxi (www.pt.mytaxi.com) and Uber (www.uber.com) are available.

METRO - METROPOLITANO DE LISBOA
This is one of the easiest ways to get around Lisbon. Accessible and relatively cheap, the metro has four main lines:
- yellow (Rato - Odivelas)
- green (Cais-do-Sodré - Telheiras)
- blue (Santa Apolónia - Reboleira)
- red (S. Sebastião - Aeroporto)

NB: the stations closest to the conference venue are Campo Pequeno (yellow line), Praça de Espanha (blue line) or S. Sebastião (blue and red line).

Ticket
Before hopping on the metro you must buy an electronic ticket, Viva Viagem, and charge it up (minimum charge €5). The card itself costs 50 cents and can be bought at the ticket office or using the vending machines. Upon charging the card, keep the receipt as it may be useful if you need to change a damaged card. A ticket exclusively for the metro can only be charged up to €20. You can check your card balance using the machines, choosing the option ‘carregamento/leitura’.

Tip: recharge your card with the approximate number of trips in mind, as you get a small bonus each time you charge it with more than €5.

A single ticket costs €1.50 and is valid for one journey, after validation, throughout the metro. A one-day ticket Carris/Metro costs €6.40 and is valid for an unlimited number of journeys throughout the Carris and Metro networks for 24 hours after validation.

You can find out more information via the Metro website (English version) https://www.metrolisboa.pt/en/.

HOURS
The first trains leave 06:30 from the terminal stations of each line; the last trains leave at 01:00 from the terminal stations of each line.

BUSINESS HOURS
Opening hours for shops and businesses across Portugal are usually 9.30am to 7.30pm, Monday to Saturday. Malls close late (11pm or 12am) daily. Cafés tend to open from 8am or 9am until 8pm daily; restaurants 12am-3pm and 7-10pm daily; banks 8.30am to 3pm (Monday to Friday); pharmacies 9am to 8pm, Monday to Friday; and supermarkets 9.30am to 8.30pm daily.
ABOUT LISBON

In 1620, Nicolao d’Oliveira explained that Lisbon, the principal city and head of the Kingdom of Portugal, was “more populated than all other cities of Europe”. Oliveira emphasized the “very healthy, mild air” of Lisbon, and vividly described the wide variety of goods that arrived in the city from India, Iran, Brazil, Ethiopia or Arabia. Only five years later, in 1625, António Coelho Gasco called Lisbon a “princess”, “imperial lady” and “Emporium of commerce”, and also indicated that “all the peoples of the world, even the most remote” travelled to Lisbon.

These words may inspire the visitor to discover the real city that lies behind the imperial rhetoric and Eurocentric view of the foreign peoples and goods that arrived to Lisbon, as well as, of course, behind the ghostly heritage of the 1755 earthquake, which resulted in the complete reconstruction of “Baixa”, in a new, “enlightened” fashion. Lisbon was on the first true world cities and still is a very cosmopolitan one. We invite you to explore World Heritage architectural marvels, the Jerónimos Monastery and Belém Tower, with their intricate carvings showcasing all the glory and excitement of the Age of Exploration, and to discover the treasures from the East and the West inside the world-class Calouste Gulbenkian Museum, Museu Nacional de Arte Antiga, Fundação Oriente, Museu Nacional do Azulejo, or the acclaimed Design Museum (MUDE) and the Berardo Museum of Contemporary Art. The city’s legendary seven hills will also seduce you with their characteristic mosaic pavements and dazzling tiled façades, and will reward you with strategically-placed viewpoints offering breathtaking panoramas over the city after a ride on a charming old tram (don’t miss No. 25 and 28).

You’ll find yourself wandering through colourful 18th-century squares downtown and getting lost in the medieval maze of the Alfama district overlooked by an ancient (reconstructed) castle. Follow that with a dive into the spectacular Oceanarium and spend your nights indulging in the city’s gastronomic delights, listening to the sounds of Fado, or bar-hopping through the cobbled alleys of the shabby-chic Bairro Alto district. You’re sure to become mesmerized by Lisbon’s wonderful mix of the old-fashioned and the hip; of the historic and the modern, but you’ll also want to go outside the city to the fairytale town of Sintra and to the cosmopolitan shores of Cascais and Estoril.

Lisbon districts
Baixa: broad squares, 18th-century architecture, patterned pavements, popular cafes
Bairro Alto & Chiado: vibrant nightlife, picturesque streets, classic and alternative culture, chic shopping, restaurants
Belém: the Age of Discovery, grandiose monuments, museums
Alfama: medieval maze, spectacular views, an imposing castle, the sounds of Fado
Uptown: masterpieces and museum treasures, shopping malls
Parque das Nações: the 21st century by the Tagus; futuristic architecture

Closest metro stations
Bairro Alto: Baixa-Chiado (blue and green lines)
Cais-do-Sodré: Cais-do-Sodré (green line)
Alfama: Santa Apolónia (blue line)
24 de Julho: Cais-do-Sodré (green line)
Parque das Nações: Oriente (red line)
Docas: Tram no. 15, 18; bus no. 28, 714, 727, 732

NIGHTLIFE
Traditionally, the centre of Lisbon’s nightlife has been the Bairro Alto, with its fado clubs, traditional, canteen-style bars, and upscale discos. In the past year, the requalification of the riverside quarter of Cais-do-Sodré led to its rebirth as a nightlife centre – currently the most trendy - with a large spectrum of bars, tascas (traditional eating places) and clubs. The bars are often open as late as 2am and the clubs till 4-6am. Much of the action also moves onto the Docas (Docks) district, situated just to the east of Ponte 25 de Abril (bridge). But don’t rule out other districts such as 24 de Julho, Alfama, Bica, Parque das Nações (Expo).

10 NIGHTLIFE POSSIBILITIES

Club Lux (Av. Infante D. Henrique, Armazém A, Cais da Pedra a Sta Apolónia, 1950-376): partly owned by John Malkovich, this is hailed as “the city’s most stylish club” for the design, the crowd and the music.

Club MusicBox (R. Nova do Carvalho 24, 1200-014): in Cais do Sodré, one of the city’s live music hotspots, hosting both Portuguese and international artists as well as regular DJ sets (rock, dance, hip-hop or reggae). Drinks are expensive, but totally worth the atmosphere.

Clube Ferroviário (Railway Club - Rua de Santa Apolónia 59-63, 1100-468): near Santa Apolónia train station, a club with an amazing view of the Tagus River from the rooftop terrace. The club is spacious the downstairs halls have live music and/or DJs playing and the rooftop terrace offers tapas and drinks and various entertainment.

Bairro Alto bar hop: Lisbon’s lively street party. Check out Majong – usually so crowded most of people stand outside in front of it.

Docas: located at the old docks next to the ‘Ponte 25 de Abril’ bridge along the river in Alcântara between Baixa and Belém, this area is full of trendy cosmopolitan restaurants and bars.

Hot Club Portugal (Praça da Alegria, 48): one of the oldest and best jazz clubs in Europe.

Chapitô (Costa do Castelo 7, 1149-079): Located near downtown (Rossio), on the hill of the Saint George castle, Chapitô offers a breathless panoramic view over Alfama and the river. Drink among young artists (Chapitô is divided into bar, restaurant, discothèque, bibliothèque, theater, training school) and enjoy the best night-time city views at this restaurant-bar.
Incógnito (Rua dos Poiais de São Bento 37): An established ‘alternative dance bar’, Incógnito offers a discerning mix of music from across the indie-rock-dance spectrum. You need to ring the doorbell to get in!

Senhor Vinho (Rua do Melo a Lapa 18, 1200-723): the city’s best Fado House. Solar do Vinho do Porto (R. São Pedro de Alcântara 45, 1250-237): sample the country’s famous wine.

Calouste Gulbenkian Foundation (Av. de Berna 45 A, 1067-001): world-class classical music program.

Op Art (Doca de Alcântara): One of the most famous night clubs at Docas (music played is mostly electro and house), where you can watch the sun rise to the sound of music.

Keynote 1: AFRICA AND THE END OF THE BLACK ATLANTIC
by Paul Gilroy (King’s College London)
Auditório 1, Floor 1, Tower B, FCSH

Paul Gilroy is a professor of American and English Literature, King’s College London, winner of the Holberg Prize 2019 (https://www.holbergprisen.no/en/news/holberg-prize/2019-holberg-prize-and-nils-klim-prize-laureates-announced). Professor Gilroy joined King’s College London in September 2012 having previously been Giddens Professor of Social Theory at the London School of Economics (2005-2012), Charlotte Marian Saden Professor of African American Studies and Sociology at Yale (1999-2005) and Professor of Cultural Studies and Sociology at Goldsmiths College (1995-1999). His areas of scholarly interest encompass postcolonial studies, particularly with regard to London, postimperial melancholia and the emplotment of English victimage; the literature and cultural politics of European decolonisation; African American intellectual and cultural history, literature and philosophy; the formation and reproduction of national identity especially with regard to race and “identity”; the literary and theoretical significance of port cities and pelagics. Gilroy has also published on art, music and social theory. His current projects are the writing of Alain Locke, the cultural significance of aerial bombardment and the autobiographical writing generated by colonial wars.

Keynote

Africa and the end of the black Atlantic

Author: Paul Gilroy (King’s College London)

Auditório 1, Floor 1, Tower B, FCSH:

Thu 18th Jul, 11:45-13:00

My talk will discuss the altered ecology of belonging that has emerged into Africa’s diasporas during the decades since “Black Atlantic” was published. My discussion of the problems that this has raised will centre on several key themes. They include the fortification of the overdeveloped countries, the impact of new communicative technologies on conceptions of solidarity, relationality and mutuality, the resurgence of extractive capitalism, and the export of generic racial identities from the USA to the whole world.
P02 | GENDERING THE LIBERATION: WOMEN’S ‘WARS’ IN POST-INDEPENDENCE, POST-APARTHEID SOUTHERN AFRICA
Convenors: Maria Paula Meneses (Coimbra University); Iolanda Vasile (CES, Universidade de Coimbra)
B1 0.08: Fri 19th Jul, 09:30-11:00, 11:30-13:00

This panel welcomes interdisciplinary proposals about the public participation of women in a range of political and civil society activities, spanning from the early years of the outburst of the liberation movements in Southern Africa, the multiple roles played by women in the struggles, to their involvement in manifestations for equal rights for women, from a gender and race perspective, and the active support to democracy in the region.

Fri 19th Jul, 09:30-11:00

COLONIAL PRESS AND THE STRUGGLE FOR LIBERATION IN MOZAMBIQUE (1964-1974)
Authors: Arnaldo Caliche (Eduardo Mondlane University); Joel Tembe (Arquivo Histórico de Moçambique/Universidade Eduardo Mondlane)

In this paper we question how and to which extent peoples’ self-determination as the United Nations in the 40s defined it, was contradicted by the perspective of economic recovery after WWII and through forced labor in Mozambique.

THERE WAS NO WAR WITHOUT US: ORAL HISTORIES OF PEASANT PARTICIPATION IN ZIMBABWE’S LIBERATION WAR
Author: Robert Lee Zeinstra (Princeton University)

This paper reorients the narrative of Zimbabwe’s conflict away from individual heroes toward a collective peasantry using oral histories of peasant collaborators. I argue that violence was rural, and that all peasants participated, including young women and men, elders, parents, and spirit mediums.

SILENCED VOICES MAKING HISTORY: OTHER WOMEN BEHIND THE FRONTLINE
Author: Maria Paula Meneses (Coimbra University)

The debate over gender and women throughout Mozambique’s nationalist war highlights the political contradictions about women’s roles in liberation historiography; their voices break away from the invisibility of women’s central contributions towards independence behind the frontline.

WOMEN BY THEIR OWN VOICES: (AUTO)REPRESENTATIONS IN THE MEMORIALISTIC PUBLICATIONS AND IN THE PUBLIC SPACE
Author: Iolanda Vasile (CES, Universidade de Coimbra)

This presentation aims to analyze the (auto)representations of the Angolan women in history and memorialistic publications and in the public space, with the scope of gendering and decolonizing the debates on women participation in the liberation and civil wars in Angola.
Niketche: Women’s Pain and Struggle in the Process of Independence in Mozambique
Author: Esperança Ferraz (NOVA FCSH)
Niketche is a novel that showcases the struggle towards independence by Mozambican women at the cultural and socioeconomic levels. This was also a war for gender equality.

POS | The Archive of the Conscious
Convenor: Khalid Shamis (The Centre for Humanities Research, UWC)
B1 1.10: Thu 18th Jul, 16:30-18:00, Fri 19th Jul, 09:30-11:00
Producing in the present, pressuring the past, for an immediate future. The key to the future lies in the past. The archive of the past is our immediate future. The question is not that we merely take and place the archive. We are not merely inheritors of a culture but its inherent makers.

Thu 18th Jul, 16:30-18:00
Subverting the Colonial Gaze? Reflections on Repurposing Archive Footage in Documentary Films
Author: Damon Heatlie (University of the Witwatersrand)
In working with archive footage produced in South Africa’s colonial and apartheid eras, filmmakers working on historical topics are confronted with raw materials that are highly dubious and seemingly irredeemable. Are there ways to work with the settler archive - or should it just be jettisoned?

YouTube as a Living Archive: Big Tech and Participatory Culture
Author: Dylan Valley (University of the Witwatersrand)
YouTube is the biggest video archive in the world, and growing - 300 hours of video are uploaded to YouTube every minute. With filmmakers using YouTube as a distribution platform, some are also using it to archive and preserve their work. In the age of big tech, how much agency do we have as users?

Researchers and Collections in the National Archives Ibadan, Nigeria
Author: James Okolie-Osemene (University of Ibadan)
The National Archives Ibadan (NAI) is located in Oyo State, Southwest in Nigeria. It is the home of research for ‘collectors and collections’ from the pre-independence era till date. The nature of available data in national archives is critical to researchers and will shape cutting-edge studies.

Transforming Education with Black Diaspora Film and Filmmaking Practice
Author: Ashley Ellis (University of Cape Town)
This paper considers black diaspora film and filmmaking practice as mechanisms for the radical transformation of education. It examines how oppositional cinematic representations can spark critical consciousness and how filmmaking practice can put emotional intelligence at the center of learning.
Revisiting and recreating archive in Mozambique
Author: Yara Pereira
In former Portuguese African colonies, archive remains a decaying colonial monument serving as reference to the independence narrative. How do we deconstruct the archive by accessing it, reinterpreting it and reinventing it according to our own narratives and by doing that recreating new archive?

Re-writing/righting history
Author: Yasmine Lamloum (University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee)
This paper examines how Sissako and Djebar re-create a historical archive for their own respective countries, and strive to re-write/right history. I intend to explore the voice-inducing mechanisms in breaking the debilitating silence of past and present events in Africa.

Making popular revolution, making archive, 1969/2011
Author: Leila Tayeb (Cornell University)
In this presentation, I compare the years following 1969 and 2011 as privileged periods for the dialectical production and archiving of Libyan popular culture. How have these post-revolution archives affected normative conceptions of archive and documentary practice for Libyan(ist) scholars?

The archive of the conscious
Author: Khalid Shamis (The Centre for Humanities Research, UWC)
The key to the future lies in the past. The archive of the past is our immediate future. The question is not that we merely take and place the archive. We are not merely inheritors of a culture but its inherent makers.

P06 Reconfiguring identities in a changing world: press, journals and books since the 1950’s
Convenors: Noemi Alfieri (CHAM/NOVA FCSH); Helena Wakim Moreno (Universidade de São Paulo/Universidade Nova de Lisboa)
B1 0.06: Fri 19th Jul, 09:30-11:00, 11:30-13:00, 14:00-15:30, 16:00-17:30
This panel aims to debate the circulation of ideas and the reconfiguration of identities starting from the production and circulation of printed materials - either books or periodical publications - written and read by Africans or in Africa on the second half of the XXth Century.

Noémia de Sousa: contestation in verses (Mozambique, 1948-1975)
Author: Gabriele Santos (Universidade de São Paulo)
This paper aims to reflect on the circulation of ideas between African and diaspora intellectuals in the writings of the poet, journalist and Mozambican militant Noémia de Sousa (Catembe, 1926 - Lisbon, 2002) since her first publications in Mozambican press and in other media until 1975.
The social history of women in Mozambique: the work of Paulina Chiziane as historical source (20th century)

Author: Juliana de Paiva Magalhães (Universidade de São Paulo)

From the analysis of the novel “Balada de Amor ao Vento” (1990) by Paulina Chiziane as well as some biographical aspects of the author, we intend to discuss the relevance of her inaugural work for the Social History of women in Mozambique during colonial rule and in post-colonialism.

Women and print cultures: Conakry, 1960-75

Author: Alexandra Reza (Trinity College, Oxford University)

Drawing on a broader research project on journals and African anti-colonialism from the 1940s to the 1970s, this paper seeks to gender the question of the circulation of print material through a focus on women’s reading, writing and editorial practices in Conakry in the 1960s and 1970s.

Coleção Imbondeiro. An Angolan editorial project, its ambivalences and the control of dissention during the late Salazarist regime

Author: Noemi Alfieri (CHAM/NOVA FCSH)

This paper aims to reflect on the editorial project of Coleção Imbondeiro, from 1961 in Sá da Bandeira (now Lubango), Angola. Leonel Cosme and Garibaldino de Andrade gave life to an ambitious project that wasn’t free of internal contradictions.

Fri 19th Jul, 11:30-13:00

The memory of others: intersecting memories in Lotus: Afro-Asian Writings

Author: Luca Raimondi (University of the Witwatersrand)

This paper looks at Lotus: Afro-Asian Writings, a trilingual journal published from Cairo by the Afro-Asian Writers’ Association, and investigates the literary and visual strategies for creating transnational “archipelagic” memory with a Pan-African relevance.

Readings, knowledge and dissemination: how “Portuguese Speaking Africa” received the world (1950-1960)

Authors: Rosa Fina (CLEPUL, Faculdade de Letras da Universidade de Lisboa); Ana Paula Tavares (Faculdade de Letras Universidade de Lisboa)

Focusing on the 1950s and 1960s, we will try to draw a cartography of the foreign literary works’ circulation among the Portuguese Speaking African Countries, in order to identify what kind of reception was possible among the intellectual groups and how they disseminated these works.

Folhas volantes. A memória da literatura como reinscrição transgressiva dos limites de África em João Manuel Varela

Author: Ana Salgueiro (Universidade Católica Portuguesa)

We revisit in this paper the concepts of memory in literature and of literature as a form of collective memory, through Space in the publications of J. M. Varela. Which form(s) are represented in these editorial itineraries in his pseudo-heteronomic work and in the (re)definition of the limits of Africa?

The young African diaspora in Spain and Portugal: a literary identity?
Author: Barbara Fraticelli (Universidad Complutense de Madrid)

A new generation of African born writers is finding a special place in the literary world. In Spain and Portugal, these authors claim for a new identity, between home, exile and the need for a mutual understanding across countries and continents.

The tri-Atlantic crossroads: the signifying ‘eel’ in Uche Nduka’s “Eel on the Reef”
Author: Obi Nwakanma (University of Central Florida)

Uche Nduka presents an interesting problem for our understanding of contemporary African poetry. Born in Nigeria in 1963, Nduka, who has lived in “exile” in Europe, (Germany) and the United States was very active in the Lagos poetry revival of the late 1980s and early 1990s, until he left Nigeria following the fallouts of the June 12, 1993 elections. Often experimental and allusive, Nduka’s poetry indicates a break from the formalism of contemporary African poetry, and charts its own path, and reach for a coherent worldview situated in a very cosmopolitan poetic style. But within Nduka’s “cosmopolitanism” rests the thrust of a “Black Atlantic” poetic that questions, even as it amplifies our understanding of a new “black Diaspora.”

African speculative fiction and the unfinished project of decolonization
Author: Raquel Baker (California State University Channel Islands)

I examine the speculative arrangements in A. Igioni Barrett’s Blackass, the tale of a Nigerian who wakes up with white skin but a black ass, arguing that speculation serves to challenge the psychic and epistemic colonization caused by the racialized identities that arise from colonial modernity.

Commodity frontiers and knowledge regimes in Africa, 1800 to present

Convenors: Samuël Coghe (Humboldt University of Berlin); Jelmer Vos (University of Glasgow)

B1 1.12: Fri 19th Jul, 11:30-13:00, 14:00-15:30

This panel examines the formation, implementation and interaction of global and local bodies of ecological knowledge at different commodity frontiers in modern Africa, paying special attention to agriculture and animal husbandry.

Fri 19th Jul, 11:30-13:00

The transformation of Angola’s coffee landscape

Authors: Jelmer Vos (University of Glasgow); Maria Gago (University of Lisbon)

This paper surveys botanic and agronomic studies produced by the Angolan Agricultural Division between 1898 and 1939 to analyse the ways in which both African farmers and colonial settlers used and adapted indigenous coffee reserves for commercial exploitation.

How an American stranger became a “genuine” African: the success story of maize in central Angola

Author: Maria Neto (Faculdade Ciências Sociais, Universidade Agostinho Neto)

Based on a variety of sources, this paper explains how maize became a staple food in central Angola well before the Portuguese conquest. It highlights its links with slave trade wars and the role of African women to the successful acclimatization and cultural appropriation of maize in that region.

Configuring commodities: knowledge and specificity in Angola’s recursive frontiers

Author: Aaron de Grassi (University of California, Santa Cruz)

I explore knowledge in relation to lived experiences of how multiple commodities and frontiers shift and combine in transformations over time and space. I explore Angolans’ exports of slaves, rubber, wax, ivory, coffee, maize, diamonds, and oil, among others.

Speed, energy, and politics: from fossil capital to commodity frontiers in the Benguela railway line (around 1930)

Author: Pedro Lopes de Almeida (Brown University)

How can travel writing cast new light on the production of colonial regimes based on the premises of landscape as a source of energy, against the backdrop of transnational commodity frontiers? I propose to read M. Burr’s travelogue in Angola in order to highlight dynamics related to these vectors.

THE “FIRST” TEN YEARS OF AFRICA AT THE VENICE BIENNALE: POWER PLAYS BEHIND CURATORIAL CHOICES

Author: Alice Girotto (Università Ca’ Foscari Venezia)

The aim of this paper is to discuss how curatorial choices of African pavilions at Venice Biennale in the last ten years are often the result of political stances and economic influences, which question art’s autonomy and turn it into a battlefield of power plays.

CONTEMPORARY AFRICAN ART PRODUCTION AND ITS EXHIBITION. THE MUSEUM AS GUILLOTINE OF ART

Author: Ange-Frederic Koffi (Haute Écoles des Arts du Rhin)

How can a young African artist get his or her work known? How can his or her work get attention when he or she is constantly under way and is nourished by “other places”? “For a man who cries out is not a dancing bear”- Aimé Césaire. The Plastic Arts and bibliographic production in Mozambique: the case of the

SAINT-LOUIS DU SENEGAL, WHAT ABOUT THE HERITAGE? WHEN CIVIL SOCIETY OVERCOMES COLONIAL TRAUMA THROUGH CULTURE
Author: Armelle Varcin (Laboratoire LET, ENSA Paris La Villette)
In Saint-Louis du Sénégal, between pride and trauma, there is an ambiguous relationship between people and its architectural heritage. We draw an analysis of testimonies and actions of civil society that is developing a new local cultural offer that overcomes the various traumas still at work.

THE ANCESTRAL VOICE AND POLITICAL LEADERSHIP IN SOUTH AFRICA AND ZIMBABWE
Author: Nicolaas Vergunst
Ordinarily, good researchers are told to exclude sources falling outside their academic discourse or scientific paradigm. But what if traditional knowledge sources such as ancestral voices (spirit messages) are able to add to or go beyond that which the historical record or archive lets us know?

P30  DIASPORA COMMUNITIES: PAST AND PRESENT HISTORY(IES)
Convenor: Solange Luis (Instituto Superior de Ciências da Educação da Huíla)
B1 0.06: Thu 18th Jul, 16:30-18:00
African diaspora has a long history that goes back as far as the slave trade and forced migration, representing today a fundamental part of societies all over the world. Its importance in terms of presence and cultural significance is rarely acknowledged to a full extent.

Thu 18th Jul, 16:30-18:00

THE FACE OF SOCIAL INEQUALITY AND CONTEMPORARY SLAVERY: AN ANALYSIS OF ACCESS TO PUBLIC POLICIES BY THE BLACK POPULATION IN SÃO PAULO
Author: Alessandra Medeiros (Tribunal de Justiça/UNIFAI)
The article is based on the discussion of indicators presented in the Oxfam Brazil Report (2017) under a racial view - “The distance that unites us”, after the disclosure of the Map of Social Inequality - of Nossa São Paulo Movement, which analyzes the city of São Paulo, the largest in the country.
REPRESENTATIONS OF ANTI-RACISM ACTIVISM AND BLACK IDENTITY IN THE MEDIA: A CASE STUDY ANALYSIS (POLICE VIOLENCE IN SEIXAL, 1/2019)
Authors: Carla Cerqueira (University of Minho); Carla Baptista (ICNOVA/NOVA FCSH)
In this paper we propose to analyse how the Portuguese media (social media, television and the press) covered the events in the neighbourhood of Jamaica, in Seixal, when violence erupted among police and black residents, leading to significant social protest in the streets.

Author: José Gueleka Kapetula (FCSH-NOVA)
Allen Halloween is one of the greatest followers of rap as the soundtrack to the ghetto. His compositions can be seen as a weapon against a system that faces and handles different social classes in a differing way. In his music are reported: the context of the suburbs, the reality of African immigrants, of the poor Portuguese living in the outskirts of Lisbon, as well as the relations established with the Portuguese state, represented by the police.

THE ATTEMPT TO OVERCOME THE IDEOLOGICAL BARRIER THROUGH THE FORMATIVE-EDUCATIONAL ACTION OF THE ASSOCIAÇÃO MOINHO DA JUVENTUDE
Author: Arianna Santaniello
The purpose of this analysis is to consider the data on the educational-formative component present in the work of the Associação Moinho da Juventude. The importance of focusing on the association’s projects lies in an attempt to deconstruct the prejudice over a neighborhood discriminated against by a part of society.

P31 FILM, THEATRE, MUSIC: NEW DIRECTIONS, LEGACIES

THE ANGOLAN RAPPER: POETRY SPEAKING TRUTH TO POWER
Author: Solange Luis (Instituto Superior de Ciências da Educação da Huíla)
How is the Angolan rapper speaking truth to power (cf. Edward Said)? How does a post-independence generation view the role of poetry in political activism and cultural resistance? RAP (Rhythm and Poetry) will rhyme to and for a new generation of Angolans while addressing power structures.

WE NEVER CALL TCHIDILONY MUSIC
Author: Eduardo Lichuge (Escola de Comunicação e Artes da Universidade Eduardo Mondlane)
The concepts on Mozambique and its music were built from a perspective foreign to Mozambican culture, thus conditioning the way Mozambique and its music were represented in the imagery of this construction and by the Mozambicans today.

Struggling for a Place in the City: Social and Geographic Mobility in the Musicians of Late Colonial Lourenço Marques

Author: Pedro Mendes (New University of Lisbon)

The activity of popular music groups in Lourenço Marques reflected the constraints instigated by the colonial system. The example of the struggle of non-European musicians to assert themselves in the city, stresses how the colonial order and its narratives were questioned in everyday life practice.

Occupation, Exploration and Gender in Belgian Congo: The Case of Congolese Popular Music in Leopoldville

Author: Felipe Honorato (Universidade de São Paulo)

This article discusses: The Congolese popular music as one of the results of a process of creolization caused by the choices of colonial power for occupation and exploration of the former Belgian Congo as well as its role of relevance for the empowerment of Congolese women within the city of Leopoldville.

Postcolonial Discourse in Cinema

Author: Lia Conceição (Papaveronoir)

This paper explores how Papaveronoir - a Portuguese film production company for contemporary African film - has been challenging eurocentrism by putting former Portuguese colonies, its national and regional culture, history and tradition at the center of the play.

Lost in Translation: From “O Escravo” to “A Ilha dos Escravos”

Author: Francisco Topa (Universidade do Porto)

Francisco Manso is a director whose work includes the adaption of literary works from Cape Verde such as “O Testamento do Senhor Nepumoceno”, “A Ilha dos Escravos” and “Os Dois Irmãos”. The goal of this paper is to analyse the second one as a mistranslation of “O Escravo”, a novel published in 1856.

“Puestos estan frente A frente”: What Did Soldiers See at the Battle of Alcácer Quibir?

Author: Luís Sousa (CHAM/NOVA FCSH)

We intend to describe the visual experience during one of the most influential single event of Early Modern Mediterranean. Confronting the graphic and textual first-hand accounts, we propose a (re) construction of the image of the Alcácer Quibir battlefield as perceived by eyewitnesses.

According to the Ottoman archive documents some precautions which were taken regarding the Slave Trade Abolition in the XIX century
Author: Hava Onalan (University of Istanbul)
In Africa, the slave trade was banned officially in the 2nd of July of 1890 at Brussels Conference. However, in order to finish the slave trade, some measures were taken by the Ottoman Empire in 1857.

Glimpses and Memory. Zanzibar, Door of the Portuguese Indian Ocean
Author: Maria João Castro (CHAM/NOVA FCSH)
The aim of this article is to map the Portuguese colonial presence on the island of Zanzibar from the 16th century to the ascendancy of the European empires in the partition of Africa in the 19th century, in a reflection that is drawn in the light of postcolonial studies.

The Memory of the Other in War Writing a Case Study - Jorge de Henin’s Memorial
Author: Ana Paula Avelar (CHAM/NOVA FCSH; Aberta University)
I will frame discursive modalities within the context of coeval textual and visual representations in extra-European spaces: decoding how narrative modalities depicted military events, and their actors, in a historical context, and the way the concepts of War and Peace were thus revisited.

Thu 18th Jul, 09:30-11:00

The Early History of Elmina - Colonial or Indigenous?
Author: Harald Gropp
In 1471 the Portuguese reach Elmina (in today Ghana) or São Jorge da Mina and built a fort there in 1482. Were they the first Europeans in Elmina? Were they the first “foreigners”? What about trade connections of the indigenous people? These questions of “precolonial” history will be discussed.

Movements in the Global Geopolitical Board: A Historical Review of the Relationship between Brazil and Africa
Author: Vanessa Andrade (UERJ)
This research discusses the approximation between Brazil and the African continent, a South-South cooperation, throughout history. It shows the scientific-technical and informative period, as a globalization facilitator, leading to a strengthening of economics and geopolitics relations between them.

Mozambique - A Gift of Memories for My Mother
Author: Manuela Gonzaga
Once we lived in Mozambique. How did it happen? How were people selected to live overseas? And how was life there? My paper deals not only with memories but raises many questions on the life in the Portuguese colonial era.
“Filhos sem pai e sem mãe”: the participation of the African Commandos in the Colonial War in Guinea-Bissau

Author: Sofia da Palma Rodrigues (CES)

Based on the collection of narratives and memories of the African Commandos who fought alongside Portugal in the Guinea-Bissau War of Liberation, this communication aims to voice those who have been silenced until now, voices that are also a contribution to history.

Thu 18th Jul, 14:30-16:00

Issue Salience in Foreign Policy: Domestic and International Elements in the Relations Between Portugal and its Former Colonies, 1976-2001

Author: Pedro Ponte e Sousa (NOVA FCSH)

This paper focuses on the analysis of foreign policy chapters in Portuguese government programs, from 1976 to the end of the 20th century, regarding former Portuguese colonies, and the role of domestic and international elements in continuity and change.

Author: Paulo Granjo (University of Lisbon)

The Mozambican urban protests of 2008 and 2010 were not Hunger Riots, but complex folk political statements in action, in which many different factors interacted. Amongst them, the core drivers were the structural precariousness of people’s subsistence and the folk’s vision on the Social Contract.

P33 Literatures: Theory, Critique and Production

Convenor: Susete Albino (CHAM/NOVA FCSH)

In this panel we welcomed contributions on literary creation and history, critique and theoretical approaches to African authors and literatures.

Wed 17th Jul, 15:00-16:30

The Task of the Translated: Appropriations and Afterlives of Greek Tragedy in South Africa

Author: Marie Lambert (Cornell University)

This paper examines the differential receptions of ancient Greek tragedy across two distinct colonial populations in South Africa, exploring how the performative ambivalence in the Hellenistic imaginary opens up a practice of anti-memorial translation that resists Western epistemological hegemony.

The Metamorphosis as a Genre of Atlantic Domination

Author: Fernando Morato (Ohio State University)

Since Ovid, metamorphosis is a major model for Western literature. This paper raises questions and proposes meanings for this genre as a symbolic appropriation within Portuguese early modern poetry. Describing metamorphosis on both sides of the Atlantic is a way of taming colonial landscapes.

Grabato Dias’s games with power in colonial and post-colonial Mozambique

Author: Tom Stennett (University of Oxford)

In A Arca (1971) and O Povo é Nós (1979), António Quadros, through his Luso-Mozambican alter ego Grabato Dias, respectively critiques the colonial regime and Frelimo’s government. The collections raise questions about the role of poetry in the colonial and post-colonial Mozambican context.

Collections of poetry-sung in traditional North African scholarly music:

Author: Lynda-Nawel Tebbani (Ecole du Breuil)

The role of the book is a compendium for preserving the tradition of poetry-sung Arab-Andalusian music. In fact, the preservation of a multi-secular heritage stemming from a multilingual and transcultural oral know-how, is now mainly accessible through collections and media collection.
